

Margaret Meikle

An experienced IT specialist of 18 years standing, including 10 years as a Project Manager. She has specific experience of Change Management business analysis, security, facilitating and coaching.

During the 90's Margaret has worked as a Consultant for PE International and Spargo Consulting on blue-chip client sites such as BP, Conoco, Amerada Hess and Buena Vista, providing them with Managed IT services and Client account management. In the late 90's she was responsible for re-engineering the provision and charging for Shell's IT Desktop in the UK. In 1999, she was Y2k Project Manager for Total E&P in Aberdeen.

Since 2000, she has utilised her business and IT expertise in the public sector to assist them in achieving some of the many goals set by the Scottish Executive. These include the web based availability of information and some services to the public. Upgrading their voice and data communications infrastructure to enable 'partnership working' with the NHS, Police, Fire etc. Implementing security measures for email and the internet.

Currently an external resource to the NHS for the deployment of £250k successful bids made to the Scottish Executive to upgrade the provision of Dermatology services in Grampian.

Her background also includes advising SMEs on IT start-up, providing in-depth training at various levels and producing quick guides, software guides and technical manuals for new systems.

Good all-round business skills, including sales management, marketing and recruitment experience. A strong customer focused perspective.

Broad background in IT covering: vendor liaison, training, development, support, coaching, change management, project management, business analysis, business continuity, EDMS and security.